

Little Larry

Larry was not impressed.

Everywhere he went, the other fish called him "Little Larry". He hated it!

"I wish I could be big like them," Larry often thought to himself. More and more, Larry played by himself so that he would not have to hear his nickname.

One day, Larry decided to go and play in the seaweed garden. It was usually quiet so this seemed like a great idea.

As soon as he entered the garden, he heard it again. "Little Larry! Where have you been?"

"That's it!" shouted Larry "I—" That was when he saw it.
