Activity 1

Last week, I entered a photography competision in my local newspaper. I was desparate to win because the marvelous prize was some new, state-of-the-art equiptment. As a very keen amituer photographer, I was determined to win. The task was to take a photograph in my local enviroment to cumminicate the beauty and history of my hometown of Whoopsville. I decided to take a photograph of the war memorials that commemorate the brave soljers that gave their lives in battle at my local cemetary. My first attempt at getting a picture was disastrous because I got caught up in an agressive thunder and lighting storm. But once the rain had ceased, I managed to get an excellant shot of a gravestone surrounded in poppies with a glorious sunny backdrop. They must have loved it - I won first prize!
